aint none of your friends business: Miss Lizzie Walter Satterthwait, 2012-04-10 The notorious Lizzie Borden investigates a brutal axe-murder that's strangely reminiscent of her own alleged crimes in this "entertaining" historical novel (The New York Times). It has been thirty years since a Massachusetts jury acquitted Lizzie Borden of brutally murdering her father and stepmother. Now, at the start of the 1920s, she's an aging spinster living a quiet, secluded life by the New England seashore. Young Amanda Burton has heard all the stories, but nothing can dissuade her from spending time with the lonely old woman next door who shows her card tricks and smells of cigars. At age thirteen, Amanda's been left to her own devices during a rather dull and swelteringly summer-long family vacation, and Miss Lizzie is the perfect distraction. But when Amanda stumbles upon her own despised stepmother's corpse, the brutal crime seems eerily similar to a certain double axe-slaying in Fall River three decades earlier. Naturally the whole town immediately suspects Lizzie. The local police, though, are open-minded enough to consider Amanda's brother and father to be viable suspects as well. To help her young friend and clear her own name (again), Lizzie must sharpen her sleuthing skills to find a fiendish killer with an axe to grind.

aint none of your friends business: Pruett's Secret Otis Morphey, 2020-07-01 Thousands of people watch the skies in wonder, tens of thousands watch because they believe,...and many hundreds have been witness to unexplained objects in the sky, most with common sense enough to know the difference between something of this earth, and something that is not! Then there are those who are of one mind, to disbelieve!...Why? Because they have never been witness, or just never thought about it,...they know who they are! Max Pruett was one of the latter. He never considered the possibility, until he witnessed it first-hand. But the memory of this sighting will last forever. He was a cattle rancher, pure and simple, he had a wife and son,...and until that night was happy with his life just the way it was. Staying the night on Carbon Creek, on land that he owned, he witnessed the strange, gliding, almost silver-looking object glide over him not fifty feet off the grassy meadow,...and then watched it crash, nose-first into a two hundred foot tall solid clay bluff, not a half mile away. When he investigated, he was thrown into an adventure that would last ten days as he would help an alien visitor from a distant world destroy an invading killer from even further away. Failure could possibly change the world's religious beliefs, and possibly the future, because the alien killer was a destroyer of civilizations,...and they would have to find him in some of the most rugged country there was, The Rocky Mountains of central Colorado!...And no one would ever know, because he was sworn to secrecy. Find out why in "Pruett's Secret" Thank you for reading.
