fiji business class: Travel Diaries of an Atypical Businessman - UNFILTERED Malcolm Teasdale, 2024-11-15 Although the title alludes to business, this book should prove entertaining to anyone who has any interest in travel and cultural diversity. There are elements of danger, temptation, risk, humor, indulgence, ridiculousness and satire in this book. The content spans over 18 years and highlights some of the business trips taken by the author. The stories are factual and reflect the events that happened at that time. From the stupidity of The Science of Parking Lots about the parking chaos at Atlanta Airport to The Gusty Winds of Change about the author's time in Moscow during the final few days of the Soviet Union's existence, these business trips bring the best and worst out of people. With an attitude of "I'll go to any place at least once", Malcolm goes in search of business opportunities in emerging markets around the Globe, some of which bring success and others that can be classified as a waste of time and energy. Challenges abound, such as: Language barriers, Cultural differences, Restaurants, Bars, Food and Drink, Social acceptance, and Staying out of trouble, and much more. Fasten your seat belts.

fiji business class: Daughters of the Pacific Zohl Dé Ishtar, 1994 This book gives a voice to the Pacific women and shows what strength there is in these underknown cultures, our nearest neighbours. The nuclear industry, tourism, dumping of waste, pollution of the oceans all carry a huge price for these islands on the rim of the world, and on the rim of our imaginations.

fiji business class: Art and Exoticism Paul van der Grijp, 2009 This book is about the yearning for authenticity via art and exoticism. Exoticism related to art cannot be reduced to primitivism alone and also encompasses a search in one's own unconsciousness among other things. The yearning for authenticity through exoticism is explored in a cultural anthropological perspective in the realms of Western philosophy (capita selecta) and colonial literature, currents of art, and in the appreciation of Western art conceptions in non-Western societies. An array of firsthand ethnographic illustrations of art production in Asian and Pacific societies demonstrates complementary processes in the non-Western world. A major hypothesis is that exoticism is closely related to, and often motivated by eroticism, a reason why exoticism should be considered as gendered. Case studies of the falsification of authentic art, the de-sacralization of sacred objects, and of the use of natural materials deriving from endangered species complete the analysis.

fiji business class: Behind the Thistle David Barnes, Peter Burns, 2016-01-19 Featuring the thoughts of more than 180 players who have represented Scotland since the very first Test match in 1871 all the way through to the present day, Behind the Thistle gives a unique insight into the drama and emotion of playing for Scotland in that most rarefied of environments – Test match rugby. In this exhaustively researched tome, David Barnes and Peter Burns provide inside access to more than 150 years of private moments in the changing room, on tour, on the training ground, during the tumultuous heat of battle itself, and lift the lid on numerous post-match antics. This is the story of what it is really like to play for Scotland, revealing the sacrifices and joys experienced by those who have shed blood, sweat and tears in pursuit of glory in the navy blue jersey.

fiji business class: Social Aspects of Health, Medicine and Disease in the Colonial and Post-colonial Era Henk Menke, Jane Buckingham, Farzana Gounder, Ashutosh Kumar, Maurits S. Hassankhan, 2020-12-02 From the 1600s, enslaved people, and after abolition of slavery, indentured labourers were transported to work on plantations in distant European colonies. Inhuman conditions and new pathogens often resulted in disease and death. Central to this book is the encounter between introduced and local understanding of disease and the therapeutic responses in the Caribbean, Indian and Pacific contexts. European response to diseases, focussed on protecting the white minority. Enslaved labourers from Africa and indentured labourers from India, China and Java provided interpretations and answers to health challenges based on their own cultures and medicinal understanding of the plants they had brought with them or which they found in the natural habitat of their new homes. Colonizers, enslaved and indentured labourers learned from each other and from the indigenous peoples who were marginalized by the expansion of plantations. This volume explores the medical, cultural and personal implications of these encounters, with the broad concept of medical pluralism linking the diversity of regional and cultural focus offered in each chapter. Please note: Taylor & Francis does not sell or distribute the Hardback in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka.
