This book extends the current trend to cover only reading comprehension by considering extensively listening comprehension. Comprehensive presentations of research on children's listening comprehension allow for a broader developmental perspective reaching preschool years. Although text comprehension is the essence of learning in educational settings, and children are confronted continuously with the challenge of getting information from texts, comprehensive publications on children's text comprehension are scarce. The author posits that a comprehensive review of children's comprehension processes has to analyze the development of fundamental cognitive processes involved in comprehension. Therefore, this book covers the impact of working and long-term memory, metamemory, inference making, and gist building on comprehension performance.The role of first and multilingual language proficiency and tasks on specific component processes of text comprehension are discussed. Research results concerning the function of multilingual proficiency and tasks in text comprehension are complemented by the author's own published and unpublished research. Theoretical considerations lead to models attempting to cover aspects of multilingual text comprehension.
