dave ramsey radio show: NeuroAuthority Brian Ainsley Horn, 2017-01-11 What is "NeuroAuthority" anyway? At a high level, it's the combination of neuroscience and authority marketing. Neuromarketing is a new field of marketing research that studies consumers' sensorimotor, cognitive, and affective response to marketing stimuli. The technology is based on a model whereby the major thinking part of human activity (over 90%), including emotion, takes place in the subconscious area that is below the levels of controlled awareness. Authority marketing helps entrepreneurs leverage their knowledge to gain authority status in their industry. This authority status then allows them to dramatically amplify their message and convert their new audience into higher paying customers. In other words, it's the process for positioning yourself as an authority, or even a celebrity, in your marketplace. NeuroAuthority is the science of creating authority positioning in the subconscious area that is below the levels of controlled awareness. It's using the proven tools of neuroscience to determine why we deem one person as an "expert" over another and then applying the research so you can use it to get more clients. Traditional methods used by marketers won't trigger decisions at a subconscious level. They just use whatever the "shiny button" is at the moment, and hope that it will work. Instead, they should use a scientific approach to capture insights that predict why prospects will choose to follow, respect, and eventually buy from one person over another. In his latest book, Best Selling Author and Entrepreneur, Brian Ainsley Horn reveals the concept of NeuroAuthority and uses case studies to back up his findings. He also provides actionable applications of it for entrepreneurs, small business owners, and professionals.

dave ramsey radio show: The Construction of 'Ordinariness' across Media Genres Anita Fetzer, Elda Weizman, 2019-12-15 Departing from the premise that 'being ordinary' is brought into the discourse and brought out in the discourse and is thus an interactional achievement, the contributions to this edited volume investigate its construction, reconstruction and deconstruction in media discourse. Ordinariness is perceived as a scalar notion which is conceptualised against the background of both non-ordinariness and extra-ordinariness. The chapters address its strategic construction across media genres (public talk, Prime Minister's Questions, interview, radio call-in, commenting) and discursive activities (tweets, social media posts) as done in various languages (American English, Austrian German, British English, Chinese, French, Finnish, Hebrew and Japanese) by professional participants (e.g., politicians, journalists, scientists) and by ordinary people participating in media discourse (e.g., ordinary citizens, viewers, members of the audience). Discursive strategies used to bring about (non/extra) ordinariness include small stories, quotations, conversational style, irony, naming and addressing as well as references to the private-public interface.
