Basic Greetings and Introductions

Starting with basic greetings and introductions is essential for establishing rapport in any language. In Juba Arabic, these foundational phrases allow beginners to greet others, introduce themselves, and engage in simple social interactions. Juba Arabic greetings reflect respect and friendliness, often accompanied by polite inquiries about wellbeing. Mastering these expressions builds a strong linguistic base and promotes positive communication experiences.

Common Greetings

Greetings in Juba Arabic vary according to the time of day and social context. Some of the most frequently used greetings include:

- Salam Alaikum - Peace be upon you (a formal greeting)
- Alaikum Salam - And upon you peace (response)
- Marhaba - Hello or welcome
- Sabah al-khair - Good morning
- Masa' al-khair - Good evening

Introducing Yourself

Introducing oneself in Juba Arabic involves simple phrases that convey one's name and origin. These phrases help establish initial connections and facilitate further conversation.

- Ismi... - My name is...
- Ana min... - I am from...
- Ana taib - I am fine

Common Everyday Phrases

Everyday phrases are critical for basic communication in markets, streets, or social settings. These expressions enable beginners to ask questions, make requests, and respond appropriately in daily interactions.

Useful Questions

Questions form the backbone of conversations and are especially important for language learners to navigate new environments effectively.

- Kam sa'a? - What time is it?
- Fein al-suqi? - Where is the market?
- Hal tatakallam Arabi? - Do you speak Arabic?
- Kam hadha? - How much is this?

Making Requests and Responses

Knowing how to politely ask for things or respond to requests is vital for respectful communication. Juba Arabic often employs simple verbs and polite particles to express these intentions.

- Min fadlik - Please
- Shukran - Thank you
- La shukran - No, thank you
- Naam - Yes
- La - No

Numbers and Counting in Juba Arabic

Numbers are fundamental for shopping, time-telling, and general communication. Learning to count in Juba Arabic equips beginners with practical skills for everyday situations. The numerical system in Juba Arabic is simplified compared to classical Arabic, making it accessible for new learners.

Basic Numbers 1 to 10

The following list introduces the numbers from one to ten in Juba Arabic, essential for beginners to memorize and practice.

1. Wahid - One
2. Itnain - Two
3. Talata - Three
4. Arba'a - Four
5. Khamsa - Five
6. Setta - Six
7. Saba'a - Seven
8. Tamaniya - Eight
9. Tis'a - Nine
10. Ashara - Ten

Counting in Practical Contexts

Using numbers in context, such as shopping or telling time, helps reinforce learning. For example, when buying goods, stating quantities and prices using these numbers improves communication clarity.

Polite Expressions and Social Etiquette

Politeness is a crucial aspect of Juba Arabic communication, reflecting cultural values and social norms. Beginners should familiarize themselves with courteous expressions to interact respectfully and build positive relationships.

Common Polite Phrases

These polite expressions are frequently used in daily conversations to show respect and kindness.

- Min fadlik - Please
- Shukran jazeelan - Thank you very much
- Afwan - You're welcome or excuse me
- Ma'a salama - Goodbye
- Insha'Allah - God willing (used to express hope or intent)

Social Norms in Communication

Understanding social etiquette in Juba Arabic-speaking communities enhances communication effectiveness. For instance, addressing elders with respectful titles and using appropriate greetings during social visits are important cultural practices.

Pronunciation Tips for Beginners

Pronunciation plays a significant role in accurately conveying meaning in Juba Arabic. Beginners should focus on specific sounds and intonation patterns that distinguish this dialect from other Arabic varieties. Careful attention to pronunciation helps avoid misunderstandings and improves listening comprehension.

Key Pronunciation Characteristics

Juba Arabic features simplified phonetics compared to Modern Standard Arabic, often omitting certain emphatic sounds and reducing complex consonant clusters. Emphasizing clear vowel sounds and stress patterns facilitates better communication.

Practice Techniques

Consistent listening and repetition are effective methods for mastering Juba Arabic pronunciation. Engaging with native speakers or audio resources allows beginners to internalize correct sounds and rhythm. Recording oneself and comparing with native pronunciation can also accelerate learning progress.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Juba Arabic for Beginners Richard L. Watson, 2018-02-19 Juba Arabic is an Arabic creole closely related to Kinubi. It began developing in the Equatoria Region of what is now South Sudan over 100 years ago, and spread widely, now being the spoken lingua franca of the region. It has become so well established that expatriates working in Equatoria often find themselves in situations in which neither English nor Khartoum colloquial Arabic is adequate for communication. Juba Arabic for Beginners was originally prepared by SIL as a language course for the communication needs of its own personnel, but other people needing to communicate in Juba have found it invaluable. The present course was adapted from the excellent Sudanese Colloquial Arabic for Beginners (Andrew and Janet Persson, with Ahmad Hussein) in general format with its 30 dialogues. However, due to important linguistic and cultural differences, five additional lessons relevant to southern culture are included. This course is written in a Romanized orthography and represents a widespread dialect of Juba Arabic. Over the past 30 years, the course has served, and continues to serve, personnel of a number of expatriate organizations.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Approaches to Arabic Linguistics Everhard Ditters, Harald Motzki, 2007 This Liber Amicorum discusses topics on the history of Arabic grammar, Arabic linguistics, and Arabic dialects, domains in which Kees Versteegh plays a leading role.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: The Routledge Handbook of Arabic Sociolinguistics Enam Al-Wer, Uri Horesh, 2019-06-13 The Routledge Handbook of Arabic Sociolinguistics comprises 22 chapters encompassing various aspects in the study of Arabic dialects within their sociolinguistic context. This is a novel volume, which not only includes the traditional topics in variationist sociolinguistics, but also links the sociolinguistic enterprise to the history of Arabic and to applications of sociolinguistics beyond the theoretical treatment of variation. Newly formed trends, with an eye to future research, form the backbone of this volume. With contributions from an international pool of researchers, this volume will be of interest to scholars and students of Arabic sociolinguistics, as well as to linguists interested in a concise, rounded view of the field.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: African Arabic: Approaches to Dialectology Mena Lafkioui, 2013-04-30 This present book studies from a dialectological perspective various African Arabic varieties, such as Maghreb Arabic, Bongor Arabic, Juba Arabic and Logorí Arabic. On the one hand, different specific linguistic aspects related to phonetics and phonology as well as to morphology, syntax and lexicology are discussed in this volume; e.g. the Arabic loanwords in Somali with regard to the strata in South Arabian, the structural features of Logorí Arabic and its use as Lingua Franca or native language, the contact-induced innovation processes in North African Arabic negation by analogy with Berber negation. On the other hand, the African Arabic theme is approached from a more general perspective analysing the contact effects on linguistic features and systems from a broader comparative, typological and universal viewpoint, e.g. a general typology of Arabic in Africa, the question of possible universal features of pidginization and creolization drawn on evidence from Arabic-based pidgins and creoles. Its outcomes offer important insights for all linguistic studies and approaches, and directly connect with other research fields such as sociolinguistics, ethnolinguistics and language acquisition.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Approaches to Arabic Linguistics Harald Motzki, Everhard Ditters, 2007-12-31 For a lifetime Kees Versteegh played a leading role in Arabic linguistics, dialects (diglossia, creolization, pidginization), the history of Arabic grammar, and other fields related to Arabic. From among his global contacts, colleagues contributed to a Liber Amicorum in appreciation of his stimulating efforts to reopen, deepen and complete our knowledge of Arabic Grammar and Linguistics. In three sections, History, Linguistics and Dialects, 27 contributors discuss (alphabetically): bilingual verb construction; contractual language; current developments; language description; language use; lexicology; organization of language; pause; sentence types; and specific topics: 'allaḍī; featurig; government; homonymy; 'iḍmār; inflection; maṣḍar; the origin of grammatical tradition; variety conflicts; and verbal schematic (ir)regularities; waqf; and ẓarf.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Variation, Selection, Development Regine Eckardt, Gerhard Jäger, Tonjes Veenstra, 2008-08-27 Can language change be modelled as an evolutionary process? Can notions like variation, selection and competition be fruitfully applied to facts of language development? The present volume ties together various strands of linguistic research which can bring us towards an answer to these questions. In one of the youngest and rapidly growing areas of linguistic research, mathematical models and simulations of competition based developments have been applied to instances of language change. By matching the predicted and observed developmental trends, researchers gauge existing models to the needs of linguistic applications and evaluate the fruitfulness of evolutionary models in linguistics. The present volume confronts these studies with more empirically-based studies in creolization and historical language change which bear on key concepts of evolutionary models. What does it mean for a linguistic construction to survive its competitors? How do the interacting factors in phases of creolization differ from those in ordinary language change, and how - consequently - might Creole languages differ structurally from older languages? Some of the authors, finally, also address the question how different aspects of our linguistic competence tie in with our more elementary cognitive capacities. The volume contains contributions by Brady Clark et al., Elly van Gelderen, Alain Kihm, Manfred Krifka, Wouter Kusters, Robert van Rooij, Anette Rosenbach, John McWhorter, Teresa Satterfield, Michael Tomasello and Elizabeth C. Traugott. The book brings together contributions from two areas of research: the study of language evolution by means of methods from artificial intelligence/artificial life (like computer simulations and analytic mathematical methods) on the one hand, and empirically oriented research from historical linguistics and creolisation studies that uses concepts from evolutionary theory as a heuristic tool in a qualitative way. The book is thus interesting for readers from both traditions because it supplies them with information about relevant ongoing research and useful methods and data from the other camp.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: South Sudan Douglas H. Johnson, 2016-11-15 Africa's newest nation has a long history. Often considered remote and isolated from the rest of Africa, and usually associated with the violence of slavery and civil war, South Sudan has been an arena for a complex mixing of peoples, languages, and beliefs. The nation's diversity is both its strength and a challenge as its people attempt to overcome the legacy of decades of war to build a new economic, political, and national future. Most recent studies of South Sudan's history have a foreshortened sense of the past, focusing on current political issues, the recently ended civil war, or the ongoing conflicts within the country and along its border with Sudan. This brief but substantial overview of South Sudan's longue durée, by one of the world's foremost experts on the region, answers the need for a current, accessible book on this important country. Drawing on recent advances in the archaeology of the Nile Valley, new fieldwork as well as classic ethnography, and local and foreign archives, Johnson recovers South Sudan's place in African history and challenges the stereotypes imposed on its peoples.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: African Human Rights Law Journal Volume 20 No 2 2020 , 2020-01-01 In 2020, the African Human Rights Law Journal (AHRLJ or Journal) celebrates 20 years since it first was published. The AHRLJ is the only peer-reviewed journal focused on human rights-related topics of relevance to Africa, Africans and scholars of Africa. It is a time for celebration. Since 2001, two issues of the AHRLJ have appeared every year. Initially published by Juta, in Cape Town, South Africa, in 2013 it became an open-access journal published by the Pretoria University Law Press (PULP). PULP is a non-profit open-access publisher focused on advancing African scholarship. The AHRLJ contains peer-reviewed articles and 'recent developments', discussing the latest court decisions and legal developments in the African Union (AU) and regional economic communities. It contains brief discussions of recently-published books. With a total of 517 contributions in 40 issues (436 articles and 81 'recent developments'; not counting 'book reviews'), on average the AHRLJ contains around 13 contributions per issue. The

AHRLJ is accredited with the International Bibliography of the Social Sciences (IBSS) and the South African Department of Higher Education, Science and Innovation, and appears in a number of open access portals, including AfricanLii, the Directory of Open Access Journals and SciELO. Over the 20 years of its existence, many significant articles appeared in the AHRLJ. According to Google Scholar the mostcited articles that have appeared in the Journal over this period are (i) T Metz 'Ubuntu as a moral theory and human rights in South Africa' (2011) 11 African Human Rights Law Journal 532-559 (with 273 citations); (ii) D Cornell and K van Marle 'Exploring ubuntu: Tentative reflections' (2005) 5 African Human Rights Law Journal 195- 220 (with 97 citations); (iii) S Tamale 'Exploring the contours of African sexualities: Religion, law and power' (2014) 14 African Human Rights Law Journal 150-177 (with 85 citations); K Kindiki 'The normative and institutional framework of the African Union relating to the protection of human rights and the maintenance of international peace and security: A critical appraisal' (2003) 3 African Human Rights Law Journal 97-117 (with 59 citations); and T Kaime 'The Convention on the Rights of the Child and the cultural legitimacy of children's rights in Africa: Some reflections' (2005) 5 African Human Rights Law Journal 221-238 (with 54 citations). This occasion allows some perspective on the role that the Journal has played over the past 20 years. It is fair to say that the AHRLJ contributed towards strengthening indigenous African scholarship, in general, and human rights-related themes, specifically. Before the Journal there was no academic 'outlet' devoted to human rights in the broader African context. Both in quantity and in quality the Journal has left its mark on the landscape of scholarly journals. The AHRLJ has provided a forum for African voices, including those that needed to be 'fine-tuned'. Different from many other peerreviewed journals, the AHRLJ has seen it as its responsibility to nurture emerging but not yet fully-flourishing talent. This approach allowed younger and emerging scholars to be guided to sharpen their skills and find their scholarly voices. The AHRLJ has evolved in tandem with the African regional human rights system, in a dialogic relationship characterised by constructive criticism. When the Journal was first published in 2001, the Protocol on the Establishment of an African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights (African Court Protocol) was not yet in force. Over the years the Journal tracked the evolution of the African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights (African Court) from a faltering start, through a phase when it increasingly expressed itself in an emerging jurisprudence, to the current situation of push-back by states signalled by the withdrawal by four states of their acceptance of the Court's direct individual access jurisdiction. The same is largely true for the African Committee of Experts on the Rights and Welfare of the Child (African Children's Committee). It was in 2001 that the AU elected the first members of this Committee. It first met in 2002, and its first decade or so was lackluster. The Committee examined its first state report only in November 2008, and decided its first communication in March 2011. Articles by authors such as Mezmur and Sloth-Nielsen, who also served as members of the Committee, and Lloyd, placed the spotlight on the work of the Committee. Initially, these articles primarily served to describe and provide information that otherwise was largely inaccessible, but over time they increasingly provided a critical gaze and contributed to the constructive evolution of the Committee's exercise of its mandate. By 2011 the African Commission on Human and Peoples' Rights (African Commission) was already quite well established, but it also underwent significant growth over the subsequent 20-year period. Numerous articles in the Journal trace and analyse aspects of this evolution. Contributions in the Journal also cover most of the AU human rights treaties and soft law standards. A number of issues contain a 'special focus' section dealing with a thematic issue of particular relevance or concern, such as the focus on the Protocol to the African Charter on the Rights of Women (2006 no 1); '30 years of the African Charter' (2011 no 2); and 'sexual and reproductive rights and the African Women's Protocol' (2014 no 2). The scope of the Journal extends beyond the supranational dimension of human rights. Over the years many contributions explored aspects of the domestic human rights situation in countries such as the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Eswatini, Ethiopia, Lesotho, Malawi, Mauritius, Nigeria, South Africa, Tanzania, Uganda and Zimbabwe. From time to time the specific focus sections also veered towards domestic human rights protection. See for instance the focus on 20 years of the South African Constitution (2014 no 2); on 'adolescent sexual and reproductive rights in the African region' (2017 no 2); on 'the rule of law in sub-Saharan Africa' (2018 no 1); and on 'dignity taking and dignity restorations' (2018 no 2).

juba arabic phrases for beginners: A Grammar of Ma'di Mairi Blackings, Nigel Fabb, 2011-07-22 This grammar provides one of the most detailed accounts available of the syntax of a Nilo-Saharan language. It fully describes some of the unusual characteristics of Ma'di, including the different word orders associated with different tenses, the particle-based modal and focus systems, the full range of adverbials, and the structure and meaning of the noun phrase. The grammar also describes the phonetics, phonology, morphology, and aspects of the lexicon of the language.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Historical Dictionary of South Sudan Douglas H. Johnson, Kuyok Abol Kuyok, Nicki Kindersley, 2025-04-15 This is the first ever historical dictionary of South Sudan as an independent nation. It focuses on the events, peoples, and cultures of South Sudan that were once treated as marginal to the grand narrative of Sudanese national history, but without disentangling South Sudan from wider historical connections across the Nile Valley and Northeast Africa. With an interpretive introduction by the three authors, it offers new perspectives on historical events and personalities, extensive coverage of recent events and current affairs, short biographies of leading social and political figures, an extensive chronology, a comprehensive bibliography, and maps based on current research illustrating specific issues confronting the new nation. Building on the classical anthropological and historical studies of South Sudanese peoples as well as new research, especially by South Sudanese authors, it provides a foundation on which to build new research on South Sudan and new perspectives on its shared history with Sudan and the wider region. Historical Dictionary of South Sudan contains a chronology, an introduction, and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section has more than 500 cross-referenced entries on important personalities as well as aspects of the country's politics, economy, foreign relations, religion, and culture. This book is an excellent resource for students, researchers, and anyone wanting to know more about South Sudan.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Arabic in Contact Stefano Manfredi, Mauro Tosco, 2018-07-10 The present volume provides an overview of current trends in the study of language contact involving Arabic. By drawing on the social factors that have converged to create different contact situations, it explores both contact-induced change in Arabic and language change through contact with Arabic. The volume brings together leading scholars who address a variety of topics related to contact-induced change, the emergence of contact languages, codeswitching, as well as language ideologies in contact situations. It offers insights from different theoretical approaches in connection with research fields such as descriptive and historical linguistics, sociolinguistics, ethnolinguistics, and language acquisition. It provides the general linguistic public with an updated, cutting edge overview and appreciation of themes and problems in Arabic linguistics and sociolinguists alike. As of January 2023, this e-book is freely available, thanks to the support of libraries working with Knowledge Unlatched.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Information Structure in Lesser-described Languages Evangelia Adamou, Katharina Haude, Martine Vanhove, 2018-08-02 The articles compiled in this volume offer new insights into the wealth of prosodic and syntactic phenomena involved in the encoding of information structure categories. They present data from languages which are rarely, if ever, taken into account in the most prominent approaches in information structure theory, and which belong to the Afroasiatic, Amerindian, Australian, Caucasian, and Niger-Congo language stocks. In addition to the significant descriptive value of these pioneering contributions, several studies also draw attention to previously undescribed or typologically rare phenomena. By adapting a variety of methods to under-described and endangered languages, ranging from experimental to naturalistic corpus studies, this volume also aims to serve as an invitation for further research in this direction.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: The Nubi Language of Uganda Ineke Wellens, 2017-07-03 The Nubi language is spoken in Uganda and Kenya. Nubi is Arabic, since about 90% of its vocabulary is of an Arabic nature. It is often termed a creole, since many of its structural and developmental features resemble those of known creoles. The growth and development of the Nubi language must be situated near Lake Albert towards the end of the nineteenth century. This period is well documented and is described at length in the first part. This volume also provides a detailed description of the Nubi language of Uganda, and it deals with the development of the language and searches for the relevant Arabic source dialects. The book includes more than one thousand examples and several texts, recorded by the author during two extensive periods of field research.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Arabic and contact-induced change Stefano Manfredi , 2019 This volume offers a synthesis of current expertise on contact-induced change in Arabic and its neighbours, with thirty chapters written by many of the leading experts on this topic. Its purpose is to showcase the current state of knowledge regarding the diverse outcomes of contacts between Arabic and other languages, in a format that is both accessible and useful to Arabists, historical linguists, and students of language contact.

juba arabic phrases for beginners: Identity and Dialect Performance Reem Bassiouney, 2017-10-24 Identity and Dialect Performance discusses the relationship between identity and dialects. It starts from the assumption that the use of dialect is not just a product of social and demographic factors, but can also be an intentional performance of identity. Dialect performance is related to identity construction and in a highly globalised world, the linguistic repertoire has increased rapidly, thereby changing our conventional assumptions about dialects and their usage. The key outstanding feature of this particular book is that it spans an extensive range of communities and dialects; Italy, Hong Kong, Morocco, Egypt, Syria, Japan, Germany, The Sudan, The Netherlands, Nigeria, Spain, US, UK, French Guiana, Colombia, and Libya.
