Origins and Biblical Context of Mary and Martha

The story of Mary and Martha originates from the New Testament of the Bible, specifically in the Gospel of Luke and the Gospel of John. This narrative presents two sisters who embody different approaches to spirituality and service. Martha is depicted as the diligent hostess, occupied with preparing and serving, while Mary is portrayed as the contemplative disciple, sitting at Jesus' feet and listening to his teachings. This contrast highlights a timeless tension between action and reflection, doing and being.

The Story in the Gospel of Luke

In Luke 10:38-42, Jesus visits the home of Mary and Martha. Martha becomes frustrated with the workload and asks Jesus to tell Mary to help her. However, Jesus gently rebukes Martha, praising Mary for choosing to focus on spiritual learning. This passage emphasizes the importance of prioritizing spiritual nourishment over busyness.

The Story in the Gospel of John

John 11 recounts the story of the death and resurrection of Lazarus, where Martha demonstrates her faith in Jesus by affirming his identity as the Messiah. Here, Martha is portrayed as a figure of faith and action, showing that her role is not just about service but also about belief and leadership.

Sample Book Insights: #1 She did it all. And then some. Martha’s duties were so heavy that she was often called the most competent female in the neighborhood. Martha’s single minded devotion to her family’s success was such that she had little time for socializing and no desire to do so. Martha was a stay-at-home mom, but she didn’t wish to just sit around. She was busy building the foundation of her family’s wealth—all while raising seven children and running the household. Not long ago, I read a book about a woman named Harriet Beecher Stowe. She was the author of Uncle Tom’s Cabin, which told the story of a group of slaves who escaped to freedom in the North and became an important tool in the fight against slavery. As a young girl, Harriet wanted to be a teacher, but her family could not afford it. Instead, she became a teacher’s assistant, and later opened an academy of her own. Because her husband had died young, she needed to support her growing family as well as pay for her own education. By age 21, she had published two books and had become a sought-after speaker. #2 You’re a Mary, and you’re in a Martha world. #3 We’ve all felt the struggle between Mary and Martha. We want to worship like Mary, but the Martha inside keeps bossing us around. #4 You are a Mary, and you're in a Martha world. You want to be like Mary, but the Martha inside keeps bossing you around.
